Order for Complaint No 01112 of 2024 dated 10 August 2026		The RERA partly allowed the complaint, holding that the complainants were entitled to interest for the delay in handing over possession of the apartment under Section 18 of the Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act, 2016. The Authority observed that a one-sided declaration-cum-undertaking obtained by the builder could not take away the flat purchasers' statutory right to claim delayed possession interest. Accordingly, the respondent was directed to pay interest at the rate of MCLR + 2% on the sale consideration of INR 58,32,051 (Indian Rupees Fifty Eight Lakh Thirty Two Thousand Fifty One) for the period from 01 July 2017 to 15 February 2019, within 60 days of the order.

Accordingly, the respondent-promoter was directed to pay interest at the rate of SBI MCLR + 2% on INR 58,32,051 (Indian Rupees Fifty Eight Lakh Thirty Two Thousand Fifty One) for the period from 1 September 2015 to 31 October 2018, within 60 days from the date of the order. Accordingly, the respondent-promoter was directed to pay interest at the rate of SBI MCLR + 2% on INR 16,95,054 (Indian Rupees Sixteen Lakh Ninety Five Thousand Fifty Four) for the period from 1 September 2015 to 25 January 2019, within 60 days from the date of the order. Order dated 28 November 2024		The NCLT dismissed the petition, in which the operational creditor had claimed INR 4,43,49,320 (Indian Rupees Four Crore Forty Three Lakh Forty Nine Thousand Three Hundred Twenty), comprising principal of INR 2,75,50,205 (Indian Rupees Two Crore Seventy Five Lakh Fifty Thousand Two Hundred Five) and interest of INR 1,67,99,115 (Indian Rupees One Crore Sixty Seven Lakh Ninety Nine Thousand One Hundred Fifteen) for sub-contract works. The Tribunal held that a pre-existing dispute existed, as the minutes of meeting dated 1 March 2019 relied upon by the operational creditor were never finalised and the amounts claimed were inconsistent, and the debt had therefore not crystallised. It further held that once the disputed amounts are excluded, the admitted debt falls below the threshold required under Section 9 of the IBC.
